Charlie King

September 20

One of the wittiest topical songwriters on the scene today, Charlie impressed us at the People's Music Network gathering in Durham last January. From "Acres of Clams" to "Vaguely Reminiscent of the Sixties," he sings songs of freedom, justice, peace and other struggles with gentle humor and biting satire. (Cosponsored by, and a benefit for, the NC Occupational Safety and Health Project, NCOSH)

Paul Geremiah

Early October, date TBA

An acoustic bluesman on 6-string, 12-string and harmonica, Geremiah is known for his wicked finger-picking and raggy guitar sound, as well as his bottomless well of tunes and songs, both obscure older works and originals. A favorite in both the folk and blues worlds. (Cosponsored by the Triangle Blues Society) As someone in Bremen said of Paul earlier this year, "In den USA, in Kanada und in England besitzt er Kult status in eingeweihten Blueskreisen."

Kim & Reggie Harris

October 25

Kim and Reggie are singers and songwriters with stories to tell about romance, freedom and life's humorous moments. They've developed their rich harmonies in 20 years of performing together from coast to coast, singing traditional blues and spirituals, celebrating Black History, and performing their own compositions.

Triangle Folk Music Extravaganza

Watch for more information! This three-day event, Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 7-9, will showcase folk and traditional musicians living in the Triangle, including Scott Ainslie, Bob Carlin & Joe Thompson, Tracy Drach, Alice Gerrard, Mappamund i, Mike Casey & David DiGiuseppe, Pat & Cathy Sky, Shady Grove, Bob Vasile and others! Friday and Saturday events will be at the Arts Center in Carrboro.

Tom Paxton

December 5 (Location to be announced.) This legendary singer-songwriter has been entertaining audiences at coffeehouses, concerts and festivals for over 30 years. Another web page quotes Nancy Griffith saying, "I think we were all born singing Tom Paxton songs." See for yourself: this discography of Tom's titles from "Ramblin' Boy" and "The Marvelous Toy & Other Gallimaufry" to "One Million Lawyers And Other Disasters" (and many more) is one place to start. If you want to sing along, there's a collection of songbooks at Cherry Lane, his publisher.

(Made possible with a Grassroots Grant from the Orange County Arts Commission.)
